sTab is the tri-weekly publication of the Committee for Alternate Solutions to Red Cap Ale, but it also does duty as a magazine of postal diplomacy. The major premise of the CASRCA is that practically any solution is preferable to Red Cap, in proof of which this editor has consumed countless bottles of odious beverages. The major premise of the diplomacy portion of sTab is that John Smythe is really Paul Harley. Subscriptions to sTab are 10 issues for $1. Subscriptions to both sTab and Valhalla (first issue out in a few weeks) are $3 per year (34 issues). Trades are welcome.

Conrad von Metzke (5327 Hilltop Dr., San Diego, Calif. 92114) advises us that there are still a few openings in Costaguana's third (and last, for a while) game. Fee is $3... or if you're already in a Costa game or trade 'zines with Conrad, $2. Costa has always been a wild ~~and wacky~~ magazine. Enroll, and blow your mind.

Due to a temporary delay, Margaret Gemignani will remain in Florida (at 3200 S.E. 36th St., Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. 33308) until April 8, then return to her Rochester address. Mail sent to Rochester (67 Windermere Rd., Rochester, N.Y. 14610) will always reach her eventually.

And that's the witty editorial for this issue.

Although Hal gives a supply center chart in that issue, I had decided to reprint it here, and to do likewise with other games as they end. ST. PEERIGRAD (8 September 1905) A stunned Empire learned today that the second assassination in Russia during the war had claimed the life of Czar Carling Ist. The Czar, whose reign lasted only a little more than twenty months, had rapidly become one of the most beloved leaders of modern times, as well as one of the most successful rulers in Russian history. The Czar, who ascended to the throne of the Romanovs following the assassination of his father Justinus IInd in Denmark during January 1904, was regarded as one of the most dynamic and forceful figures in international politics. Long a believer of the Peericratic Method, Carling was known to be an avid seeker of peace, though willing to fight when necessary to protect Russian rights. The Czar was assassinated by a Turkish student, one Femor Humperdink, when he was visiting the International Exposition here yesterday morning. The Czar, who arrived unexpectedly at the Exposition, was quickly surrounded by throngs of cheering Russians who overcame security guards in their efforts to get close to the Czar. Nodding, smiling, and shaking hands with everyone in sight, the Czar made his way toward the Serbian Exhibition Hall. As he entered the hall, Humperdink, who was employed as an usher there, stepped in front of him and fired three pistol shots into the Czar's heart. The Czar, dead instantly, fell. Humperdink was immediately attacked by the throngs of cheering Russians, who literally tore him limb from limb.

ST. PETERGRAD (10 September 1905) The entire Russian Court today attended the burial services for His Majesty Carlsh Ist, former Autocrat of All the Russias and Emperor of the Empire. The services, conducted by the Archbishop and Patriarch of Moscow, were surrounded with all the dignity and grief due to one of the Czar's station and popularity.

ST. PEERIGRAD (14 September 1905) Only four days after the burial of His Majesty Carling Ist, Russia has a new ruler. Without waiting the customary period of mourning due a deceased ruler, the throne of the Romanov's has been filled by Her Imperial Highness, the Empress Xenia Tanayevski-Ordovski Romanov, who succeeded her late father, Carling Ist. The Empress, previously unknown to the peoples of Russia, is only eighteen years old. Inspite of her youth, her inexperience, the Empress has already won the hearts of the people and the loyalty of her government, her army and her press agents. In a special broadcast to the nation, Her Highness gave the following address:

"Me people, our friends throughout the world, and those governments that lead the forces against us: It is with both fear and courage that I speak to you today following the recent Fear, not for Russia but for myself that I may not be able to carry the heavy burdens of the leadership of our country in this time of international conflict. Courage, however, I have because I have faith in my people, my advisors, and most importantly in you my people. As long as I have the confidence and support of all of you I cannot but be successful. So, I implore each of you to give us every assistance in this hour of great peril.

"To those nations who oppose our attempts to defend ourselves and our allies we offer our earnest pleas for peace.

"But to those nations who are responsible for our present grief they can be and are warned that we will avenge our losses. Serbia and Turkey will be no more. Also, we will continue on against the Germans. All those who stand in our way will be destroyed.

"That then is our message. To our people, love. To our allies, friendship. To our enemies, death."

ST. PEERIGRAD (14 March 1968)      Obscure note in the pages of the St. Peerigrad Town Crier: "If it is to be assumed that we are indeed Jack Greene, Jr., then we must conduct ourselves in a manner befitting such a signal recognition. Therefore all are notified that from this moment forth we will abide by the Greenian Convention and use only those tactics and methods approved by the Greene League."

Other news from St. Peerigrad centered around two interesting meetings and competitions in the city during the past Fall and Summer.

During the summer the last Annual Peace Conference was held at the University of St. Peerigrad under the direction of Professor Peter H. Olmes and sponsored by the PPP Broadcasting Co.

The highlight of the Conference was a debate on the intervention of Russia in Serbia during the current war. Speaking at the conference were four of the world's leading political-military experts, who debated the pros and cons of the war, or as some one put it "that atrocious attempt at mass conversion using non-violent force!"

Representing the Hawks was Professor May Curtiss of the National Periland War College, one of the world's leading experts in peribomic warfare. Representing the Doves was Professor Francis D. Borke, of Simon Fraser University. Professor Borke, whose well known testimony at the Tivoli Trials helped to convict the assassins of Czar Justinus IIInd, spoke extensively. Speaking for the Vultures was Professor Ernest Heichauer of Walla Walla Junior College and speaking for the Chickens was Professor Olmes. The Moderator was Dr. Lawrence O'Peery, of PPP Broadcasting (this is not a further indication of Doctor O'Peery's Casanova abilities). The Conference went very well and following a survey of the audience showing a resolution passed calling for the establishment of Serbia as a Peerocracy, which would apparently solve all its problems, including the pressing one of what to do about the rising cost of Miller's Highlights.

Doves 15%, Chickens 20%, Hawks 30%, and Vultures 35%.

This major problem, already of world-wide concern, threatens to become the great issue of the war and attempts to end it.

Markets in Rome, Zurich, Paris, London, St. Peerigrad, and Peerijavo report that the price of beer is reaching an all time high and may soon threaten the stability of the Perimark, dollar, Franc, and Gaulstone.

Latest quotations showed beer prices up 23% and still rising.

Meanwhile in St. Peerigrad the International Beer Drinkers Competition dominated the Autumn Perrilympics.

Following a round of competitions including such famed events as: greatest single swallow, largest capacity for stout, ability to pull more pop-tops in an hour than anybody, ability to throw an empty can further than anybody, ability to pile empty cans higher than anybody, ability to say Haammmmmms.... longer than anybody, etc. The following results were in:

- |                        |                               |
|------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 1) Anhauser-Busch      | 6) Haammmmmms                 |
| 2) Olyie               | 7) Carling Ret Top            |
| 3) Schlitz             | 8) Carling Black Top (made of |
| 4) Miller's Highlights | 3% concrete & 34% asphalt)    |
| 5) Burgemeister        | 9) Carling Greene Top         |
|                        | 62) Rolling Rock              |

In team competition the best teams were:

- 1) Eastern Canadian Beerswillers Guild
- 2) Holy Toledo Burpers Club
- 3) Vancouver Suds Bugs
- 4) Detroit Boozers Anonymous Incorporated

In individual competition the following gold medals were awarded:

- 1) Highest Total Consumption: Dr. Derrick Nelson
- 2) Poorest Judging Ability for Tasting: Ac 3/c 4-F P-U
- 3) Most photogenic beermug: John Koning
- 4) Cutest Commercial: Schlitz's Five-a score
- 5) Most attractive product: Illinois Institute of Technology

The competition proved to be exciting and even beneficial. The four million three hundred thousand two hundred and sixty-three left over beer cans have been donated to the William Miller for President Campaign Committee.

Oylie!

TORONTO (DWE) Dr. Derek Nelson, president of Ryerson College, today announced the appointment of Dr. Lawrence O'Peery as head of Ryerson's revolutionary Space Communications Research Division. In honor of Dr. O'Peery, diverse man of many talents and inventor of the "radio-pericone dating techniques," the Canadian Government has renamed their rocket center "Cape Casanova."

(TEMPORARY) CHANGE OF ADDRESS: James W. Latimer III
4011 Silver Hill Rd.
April 12 to 20 Suitland, Maryland 20023

LONDON (January 1908) The Admiralty announced that the British Fleet will occupy the waters of the Baltic Sea preparatory to pacification of that region. The fleet will pass through Copenhagen and be in the Baltic by Fall of this year.

COURT OF ST. JAMES His Most Britannic Majesty Edward VII announced that amicable relations have been established with all governments except Austria-Hungary. Britain has not renounced her claims to Portugal, but pending Italian success in the East will make no attempt to recover her rightful sphere of influence, as this might weaken the efforts against the Austrian.

His Most Britannic Majesty pledged full and continuing support to the legitimate Russian Government in St. Petersburg. The Norway Fleet stands at the disposal of the Tsar, and British units coming to the Baltic will aid in the liberation of the Russian homeland.
British troops now in Belgium will depart to Holland and thereafter support the German Government in resistance to the Austrians, and British Expeditionary forces in France will continue their attacks on Bavaria. His Majesty has pledged to continue the war until all threats of Austrian domination of Europe are ended forever.

The speech from the throne ended with the ringing pledge, "NO TRUCE WITH TYRANTS!"

Underlined moves do not succeed. The Turkish Army Sevastapol is annihilated. Note that since the "Miller Rule" is not used here, the successful German attack from Rumania to Sevastapol does not cut Sevastapol's support for the Turkish "F Bla-Rum," thus there is a standoff in Rumania.

MISSOIF

CONRAD VON METZKE (5327 Hilltop Dr., San Diego, Calif 92114) In beer -- my own personal favorite is Swan -- a light Australian brew that tastes a little like turpentine (believe it or not, that's a compliment -- I like the taste of Swan indeed, though I can't say pure turpentine is especially good).

But what think ye experts of Bass Light Ale? 'Tis the only English beer available in San Diego, as far as I know, and it seems pleasant enough. Could I get an expert opinion? And would those who know kindly tell me what they think about Swan -- the only beer I'll drink unless I have no choice. I-Send 1 case of Swan each to Nelson, McCallum, Hälle, Smythe, and I, and we'll compare notes. Ditto for Bass. In the meantime, we are still soliciting a defense for Miller's Ale, and will now accept pertinent comments about Swan, Bass, pure turpentine, or toilet flushings... if anyone in the audience is a devotee of any of those beverages.--!

LARRY PEERY (4567 Virginia Ave., San Diego, Calif. 92115).....

AN OPEN LETTER TO JOHN KONING:

Dear John,

Your recent cover proclaiming that I and Jack Greene are really the same person has provoked considerable comment, both here, in the Bay area, and in Walla Walla, Washington.

I must write you concerning this matter since it poses grave ethical and moral questions for all of us.

Among these questions were: "Is a person with a Jr. after his name better than one without it?", "does an 'ee' in a person's name automatically guarantee his success and brilliance?", "is there really any need for using phoney names in Diplomacy games?" Each of these questions and others must be considered and answered fully.

Certainly a Jr. after one's name does not indicate superiority. It merely indicates lack of originality on the part of parents. In this case Jack could just as well have been named Rudolf, Wilhelm, Petunia, or even John.

A double "ee" is a certain indication of success and brilliance. There are thousands of examples around. It is admittedly not as useful as an "eeri" or even a "peri" but it's a start.

The use of phoney names in Diplomacy games is another matter.

Certainly some players with especially bad reputations, or offensive names, or other guilts should use different names, such as Edward Everett Morton, Petunia J. Peagreen, or Debbeye Deutschland, or perhaps Carlton J. Fassbinder. Even the use of phoney names like Margaret Gemignani, Eric Blake, John Boardman, or Bill Linden is better than revealing that one is truly Derek Nelson. Don't you agree? {-Well... yes.-}

But, the root of the matter here concerns your imputation that Jack Greene and I are the same person. This is obviously a falsehood, although I am not denying it. The only question I pose is, if anybody had my brains and Jack Greene's looks would he be wasting his talents playing Diplomacy? I think not. {-Having seen no evidence of either Mr. Greene's looks or your cited attributes, I cannot answer.-}

There are other obvious differences. Mr. Greene is a populist. I am an aristocrat. Mr. Greene is a devotee of Claire Both Luce, I of Margaret Chase Smith. He supports the Australian policy of apartheid and racial prejudice, I do not. He supports the continuing plague of Greenebeans, rabbits, the Greene Plague, and other greener-than-thou things, which I do not. Obviously, therefore, Mr. Greene is not I.

In fact, the thought of anybody daring to even think of questioning my existence, or Mr. Greene's, makes me wonder...

Could it be that you, Mr. Koning, are really William McChesney Martin, perhaps Derek Nelson, or even John Smythe? {-The obvious is not always untrue.-}

There are less important questions before the world, Mr. Koning, but certainly if you look a little harder you can find one that is even more ridiculous.

Sincerely yours,

/s/ Lawrence Wm. Peery III
alias Jack the Greenbean

P.S. In conclusion, I would like to announce the engagement of Mrs. Clara T. Bloomington-Withworth to Colonel Irving "Goldbags" Solomon. The wedding will be held at New Peeryhaus, Periland. All are cordially invited.
